(per Sri Devinder Gupta, CJ)

The writ petitioner is in appeal before us against the order of dismissal dated 8.3.2004.

On 1.3.2004 when the writ petition came up for hearing before the learned single judge, none appeared on behalf of the appellant. Therefore, the learned single judge adjourned the case to 3.3.2004. On 3.3.2004, an adjournment was sought for 8.3.2004. On that day also, nobody appeared. The learned single judge, by the impugned order dismissed the writ petition, which order is under challenge before us.

It will not be permissible for us to interfere with such an order of dismissal passed by the learned single judge since no arguments were addressed on behalf of the appellant. In case, appellant would like to contest the matter on merits, it will be appropriate for the appellant to seek review of the said order before the learned single judge.

With leave and liberty granted to the appellant to avail the said remedy of review, the appeal is dismissed. No costs.
